Gary Barden

Rock 'n' Roll My Soul

 feat. Don Airey, Wayne Findlay a.o.*

The English singer and songwriter Gary Barden is famous as a singer in the Michael Schenker Group, as well as for his collaborations with Michael Schenker. Together they have penned several of the greatest songs made since the 80s, with Michael Schenker composing the music and Gary Barden providing the lyrics.

Both during and in between his collaborations with Michael Schenker, Gary Barden also worked with various other bands such as Praying Mantis, Statetrooper and Silver and also as a solo artist.

Rock 'n' Roll My Soul shows a very different side of Gary Barden. Songs which have shaped his career, given it a direction or which kick-started it back when he was a teenager. The recordings are his tribute to his idols and to the immortal songs of the time. The producer Michael Voss and Gary Barden have poured their soul into capturing the distinctive atmosphere and beauty of the music, breathing new life into the compositions of these tremendous songwriters. Rock 'n' Roll My Soul reflects the emotions and impressions which Gary Barden soaked up in his youth.

Gary Barden on Rock 'n' Roll My Soul: My love for these songs will never die. Enjoy these songs from a long bygone, but truly wonderful, time. You will hear how broad my musical influences are. There are a few surprises in store.

Joining the ranks on Rock 'n' Roll My Soul: Don Airey, Wayne Findlay, Steffi Stephan, Ferdy Doernberg, Matthias Rethmann, Barend Courbois and Molly Duncan.

United Jazz + Rock Ensemble

Round Seven / Team Work (2 CD)

- Special Priced 2:1 Series

The United Jazz + Rock Ensemble, or UJRE, is not your standard big band, nor is it an all-star ensemble in the usual sense, with a compact sound and various resplendent soloists. No, the UJRE is the "band of bandleaders", as it has often been appropriately called. That is, a Formula One team in which only champions are at the controls. Or a tribe of Indians with only chiefs gathered around the campfire. Since their legendary debut "Live im Schützenhaus" (1977) to the "Farewell Tour" in 2002, the band's mastermind Wolfgang Dauner and his co-chiefs toured all over Germany – the audience couldn't get enough of the fantastic interaction between the numerous strong musical personalities, and turned up in droves at their concerts. But the magic of the UJRE has also been preserved on CD. 1978's "Teamwork", successor to the furious "Schützenhaus" album, shows the classic line-up of the band on top form: Dauner, Albert Mangelsdorff, Charlie Mariano & Co. harmonising like a dream. In "Round Seven" from 1987, the ensemble gives the soloists plenty of room – for example, super-drummer Jon Hiseman, sensitive guitarist Volker Kriegel, or Eberhard Weber with his unmistakable bass sound.

Mangelsdorff Dauner Quintett

Hut Ab / Two Is Company (2 CD)

- Special Priced 2:1 Series

In 1977, trombone pioneer and world-renowned soloist Albert Mangelsdorff convened a meeting of the leading lights of German jazz in the studio. To mark his approaching 70th birthday, this famous son of Frankfurt gathered around him the best in the business: his old companion, Stuttgart's Wolfgang Dauner, made highly intelligent contributions on the grand piano and added plenty of spice to the recording. Christof Lauer, like Mangelsdorff born in Hessen, made exciting excursions on the saxophone, swerving towards the modern. Bassist Dieter Ilg from Freiburg set up a reliable harmonic structure, and Wolfgang Haffner from Upper Franconia, as young as he was versatile, drummed with stupendous energy and assurance. The album title "Hut ab!" is Mangelsdorff's tribute to all the people whose dedication over the years made a vibrant jazz scene even possible in the first place, from jazz club owners to concert organisers. However, "Hut ab!" can also be an expression of the listener's respect for this wonderful musical achievement.

The title of "Two Is Company" says it all: Albert Mangelsdorff and Wolfgang Dauner, two extraordinary exponents of their instruments, get together for brilliant, edgy, sensitive and energetic dialogues. Two masters in good "Company".

Aak van Rooyen

Homeward / Pictures From My Album Of Friends (2 CD)

- Special Priced 2:1 Series

Born in 1930 in The Hague, jazz trumpeter and flugelhornist Ack van Rooyen is a master of the warm, gentle, lyrical tone. In the course of his extremely rich musical life, the Dutchman also made various recordings for the South German label Mood, which is managed personally by the jazz luminaries engaged there. Thus, he is part of the standard line-up of the United Jazz + Rock Ensemble, and other recordings bear witness to the enormous versatility of the man who had already performed with Peter Herbolzheimer's Rhythm Combination & Brass, with the big bands of the SFB and the SDR, and with the Bert Kaempfert Orchestra. "Pictures From My Album Of Friends" combines twelve wonderfully vibrant, sensitive examples from his discography, as complex as they are soulful, from the duo with guitarist Eef Albers to the elegant, romantic flights of imagination with the Metropole Orchestra. "Homeward" in turn illustrates in seven inspired dialogues how blindly Ack van Rooyen and pianist Joerg Reiter trust one another.

United Jazz + Rock Ensemble

Die Neunte Von United / X (2 CD)

- Special Priced 2:1 Series

The United Jazz + Rock Ensemble was a live event of a very special kind. This "band of bandleaders" – emerging in the mid-1970s from Wolfgang Dauner's "Elfeinhalb Ensemble", which played in programmes on the Süddeutscher Rundfunk (SDR) – was made up of only proven masters, who could structure musical processes as expertly as they could shine, sensitively and with virtuosity, in complex improvisations. Thus the original CDs "Die Neunte von United" (1996) and "X" (1999) are also live recordings, both captured by formidable sound master Carlos Albrecht. A number of changes have occurred since the line-up of the legendary UJRE debut "Live im Schützenhaus". The "Neunte" includes the addition of inspired saxophonist Christof Lauer, bassist Dave King and trumpet sophisticate Kenny Wheeler. On "X", Lauer and King are accompanied by trumpeter Thorsten Benkenstein and guitarist Peter O'Mara. The result sounds funky in places, more rock-influenced in others, even sometimes taking its cue from the lyrical hymns of Oregon. In any case, the accomplished all-rounders of the UJRE always deliver unorthodox jazz-rock in a class of its own.

Larry Carlton & Steve Lukather Band

The Paris Concert

 Now available on Blu-ray Disc*

If you're not one of the lucky fans who applauded the long-awaited pairing of Larry Carlton and Steve Lukather - Larry, who was named guitarist of the year so often that the title of "player emeritus" was created for him alone, and Steve (formerly of Toto), a flamboyant "guitar hero" in his own right - this concert will blow away your reticence. The 2001 get together of these two masters at their creative peak was an unforgettable experience fuelled by mutual love and respect, freedom of inspiration and the sheer pleasure of playing. Two musicians who have been friends for thirty years toasting each other between numbers on stage at the New Morning : could there be a better reminder that blues and rock find the main source of their energy in the complicity between musicians ? Before you shove the disc into the player, a bit of friendly advice : fasten your seat-belts!

Robben Ford

The Paris Concert

 Now available on Blu-ray Disc*

Robben Ford, who lives in California, is one of the most important guitarists on the scene. He grew up with soul from Otis Redding and Aretha Franklin and with blues rock from Eric Clapton and Mike Bloomfield. Even as a 20 year old, he had the reputation of being a "musician's musician". Everyone wanted to have him in their band. So, one after another, he played with Joni Mitchell, LA Express, Miles Davis, Little Feat, George Harrison and so on. In 1977 he was one of the founders of Yellowjackets. Then, as the nineties started, he left the jazz scene and returned to his roots in the blues.

A whole series of magnificent albums show that this was exactly the right decision, as does the New Morning - The Paris Concert BD. This electrifying concert was recorded in May 2001 in the "New Morning" club in Paris, one of the most important European jazz clubs. The packed house experienced Robben Ford in peak form. It was a truly classy performance on the stage that night. Accompanied by Louis Pardini (keyboards), Jimmy Earl (bass) and Brannen Temple (drums) Robben Ford showed every facet of his furious guitar playing. With numbers like "Start It Up", "Moonchild Blues", "Deaf, Dumb And Blind" or "You Got Me Knockin'" the virtuoso excelled himself and played blues rock which simply can't be bettered.

Die Fallers

Staffel 1, Folge 51 - 100 (9 DVD)

Wegen ihrer Realitätsnähe wurde Die Fallers eine große Erfolgsgeschichte.

Seit 1994 gehört die Fernsehserie Die Fallers zu den Höhepunkten im Südwest-Fernsehen. Und nicht nur dort, sondern auch überregional finden die Familiengeschichten rund um den Fallerhof großes Interesse und wachsende Begeisterung.

Der Erfolg der Fallers beruht auf verschiedenen Faktoren, die sich gegenseitig beeinflussen: Es sind zum einen die für die Zuschauer nachvollziehbaren Geschichten, die realitätsnahen Drehbücher, aber auch die einzigartige Umgebung der Original-schauplätze und nicht zuletzt die Natürlichkeit und Lebendigkeit, mit der die Schauspieler ihre Figuren darstellen. Die Anlehnung an reale Gegebenheiten äußert sich bei den Fallers schon in vermeintliche Kleinigkeiten. So zum Beispiel wurde der Name Faller ganz bewusst gewählt, denn er ist in der Region, in der die Serie spielt, weit verbreitet.

Mehr noch als der typische Name wirken typische Menschen auf die Authentizität der Handlung ein: Die Schwarzwaldbauern in der Realität beeinflussen das Leben auch in der Serienfiktion und verleihen der Landschaft ein unverwechselbares Profil. Dazu kommen immer wieder regionale Ereignisse und Feste, die Tradition des Schwarzwaldes, in die die Geschichten um die populäre Familie eingebunden werden.

Die wirtschaftliche Situation der Region, vor allem die Probleme der Landwirte, beschäftigen Die Fallers so wie jeden, der dort tatsächlich lebt. Diese realitätsnahe Darstellung in einer Unterhaltungssendung macht Die Fallers für ein breites Publikum interessant. Denn es erkennt, dass die Geschichten mitten aus dem Leben gegriffen sind und in enger Beziehung zur Wirklichkeit stehen.

Lady Audleys Geheimnis

Dieser packende zweiteilige Fernsehkrimi nach dem Roman von Mary Elizabeth Braddon aus dem Jahre 1978 mit hochkarätiger Starbesetzung zählt zu den Sternstunden des deutschen Fernsehens.

Der junge Engländer George Talboy kehrt nach sechsjähriger Abwesenheit als erfolgreicher Goldsucher aus Australien zurück, um mit seiner schönen Frau Helen und dem Sohn Charles ein glückliches Leben zu beginnen. Er erfährt jedoch, dass Helen inzwischen gestorben ist.

In London trifft George seinen alten Schulfreund Robert Audley wieder, der ihn zu trösten versucht, indem er ihn zum Herrensitz seines Onkels Sir Michael Audley und dessen zweiter Frau Lady Audley mitnimmt. Während dieses Besuchs verschwindet George eines Nachts spurlos.

Zunächst vermutet man, dass er wieder nach Australien abgereist ist. Doch bald muss Robert annehmen, dass sein Freund ermordet wurde. Er macht sich zur Aufgabe, den geheimnisvollen Fall aufzuklären ...

Der Strick um den Hals

(2 DVD)

Knisternde Hochspannung in einem dreiteiligen Kriminalfilm nach dem Roman von Emile Gaboriau.

Eines Nachts im Jahre 1871 bricht auf dem Landsitz des Grafen Claudieuse ein Feuer aus und vernichtet Schloß und Stallungen. Der Graf wird durch zwei Schüsse lebensgefährlich verletzt. Die Gräfin kann den Flammen entkommen, ihre beiden Kinder werden von dem schwachsinnigen Bauernburschen Cocoleu gerettet. Dieser beschuldigt den Besitzer des Nachbargutes, Jacques von Beaucoran, Brandstifter und Täter zu sein. Auch andere Zeugen haben ihn in jener Nacht in der Nähe des Landsitzes gesehen. Er wird verhaftet und von Untersuchungsrichter Galpin verhört. Jacques verweigert jedoch jede Aussage und sein Schweigen wird umso verständlicher, je deutlicher die Indizien gegen ihn sprechen. Auch seiner Verlobten, Denise von Chandore, will er nicht die Wahrheit sagen. Nur dem berühmten Anwalt Magloire will sich Jacques anvertrauen. Kann dieser herausfinden, wer wirklich hinter diesem grauenvollen Verbrechen steckt?
